THE COMMUNIST SNEAK

A natural inclination of the American people towards the peaceful and quiet life has been one of the chief reasons why Communists have been able to gain such a strategically important foothold in various quarters in our country. Who wants to start a fight? Who wants to get involved in a noisy, unpredictable controversy? Very few Americans do. You cannot fight Communists anywhere, and especially not here in America where the stakes are so high, without bringing the entire target of the Communists' entire propaganda apparatus.

And almost invariably when on aggressive anti-Communist crusades he finds out that the main Communists' target against him is peacefully disposed by carefully calculated steps taken all along and unopposed by top Americans. Many people do. You cannot fight Communists anywhere, and especially not here in America where the stakes are so high, without bringing the entire target of the Communists' entire propaganda apparatus.

Suggestions for Success

HERE ARE SOME sure-fire suggestions which will direct you on your path toward success. I found them in a timely little volume called "Live a New Life," published last spring by Professor David Guy Powers. And every one of these suggestions is easily followed if your mental attitude is right:

1—Cultivate the attitude of agreement. This is the very core of persuasion, "sweet reasonableness." Two or more minds coming together to seek understanding set the pattern of agreement. On the other hand, truculence creates truculence.

2—Accept men as they are and seek to understand them. There is a point of course, where a man must take the isolated point and break with it all for clear principle, but until it comes he must work, if he would be of use, with men as they are. As long as good in them overbalances the evil, let him work with that for the best that can be got.

3—When dispute arises ask yourself, "How far can I go along with his views?" You may be amazed at the number of concessions you can really make before points of difference arise, and agreement in minor points often prevents issues from arising.

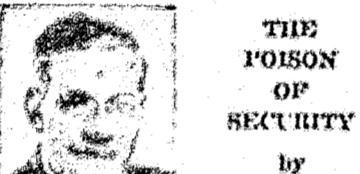

4—Assure the opposition that an agreement can be reached. Thomas A. Morgan advises: "I never assume that there is a fight. In fact, I tell the other person there isn't a fight, and ask his help with the problem."

5—Establish areas of agreement, and agreements will follow. In any dispute, be more than ready to compromise. The wise man continually seeks modifications which will create harmony. He knows that each item of agreement builds toward the next one by setting the pattern. Time spent in creating a mood of agreement is well invested. Follow the path of nature to a man's mind; present your story to his senses. For "the mind must yield to evidence things." Remember there is nothing in the mind that was not previously in the senses.

Make demonstration a part of your thinking process. Visualize every aspect of your cause. Search your cause or product for its uniqueness. Ask yourself, "How can I make this point appeal to the senses of others?"

You can't go wrong in reading Professor Powers' ideas, and you will be more and more likely to go right if you mull them over.

THE AMERICAN WAY

MORTON CLAUSEN Morton Clausen

PHILADELPHIA NOTE. Morton Clausen was for many years publisher and editor of a weekly newspaper.

In quiet frugal times there lived a Union, greatly beloved by his people for his courage and justice.

He became the greatest in the land. He, too, became beloved and revered by the people he ruled.

The son remaining at home, basking in ease and security, grew fat and indolent. After his father's death he became increasingly demanding upon his people to supply the wants of his riotous living. Rumors of discontent grew.

The ancient foes of the barony took heart and were once again sought to rally his subjects to the defense, but the fat and secure living had robbed him of the fire of leadership. Little by little his estates crumbled and, perhaps as a fitting climax, he lost his life at the hand of an oppressed and traitorous subject.

There is a lesson in this story for American. Are we, too, trading opportunity for security? Are we failing to realize that for every inch of gain in security, there is the loss of a foot of opportunity?

We need a strong nation and a strong people. But strength is not found in security, especially the kind paid for by others. The only security worth having is that which is earned out by the individual with his own hands and ingenuity and creating opportunities for self and others.

Too much security saps the strength and vitality of individuals and of a people, economically and morally. Already the security burden upon our nation—and increasingly upon industry—threatens to bog down our entire economic structure. It may bankrupt the nation, paralyze industry, and enslave the people.

Moreover, the poisonous acid of too much security is most devastatingly eating into the moral fabric of the individual. Man needs to temper the forces of insecurity to a certain degree to bring out the best in him and make him strong.

The weak may succumb in the battle, but no people and nation ever survived by weakening the strong in order to protect the weak. The law of the survival of the fittest shall always remain one of the fundamentals of nature.

Too much security is making us a disgruntled people. Taxes are multiplying beyond endurance. Soon we shall be too economically weak to exploit our opportunities. Israrians are spawning their kind in increasing quantities. Perhaps, can we awaken to our dangers and act, we, too, may suffer at the hands of the assassins within our borders. We can not afford to lose the fire of leadership because as individuals we have failed to rise to the challenge of responsibility. Fighting it for the sly but deadly poison of security.

The son asked that he be allowed to earn the security and ease of his father's table. Now that the circumspect training of his youth was over, he wished to quietly enter the front of the land, unburdened by discord and strife.

The other son asked that he be released from the custody of his father and father to seek the opportunity of adventure in the outside world. To that end he was willing to yield all rights in the paternal estate to his brother.

True to his promise, but with sadness in his heart, the baron granted the son's wishes.

The years passed. The son who had sought opportunity soon distinguished himself in the service of his king, and was given a barony of his own, which he enlarged through courage and wisdom until he became the greatest in the land.

BAG DROPS RETURN GO AT VIRGINIA, 11-8

Despite one Bethel run in the first inning, the Virginia Club moved to 8-1 advantage in the second inning, Sunday afternoon.

"Lefty" Keniston started on the hill for the losers and by allowing four hits and six bases on balls gave up the first eight runs. Keniston was replaced by Herb Kitteridge in the third, who pitched two hit, shut-out ball for five frames, giving up only a pair of passes. Pete Baker pitched the eighth and was the victim of the last three enemy counters.

IF FLOWERS are conditioned before you make arrangements for them in vases and other containers, they'll keep fresh for a longer period of time.

Garden flowers, such as asters, calendulas, marigolds, snapdragons and zinnias last much longer if they are allowed to stand overnight in water to which has been added sugar. Use one teaspoon of sugar for each quart of water.

Iris and tulips will last much longer if they are picked in the bud and wrapped in wet newspaper immediately. Plunge the wrapped bunches into deep water which comes up to the blooms.

Gardenias and camellias never drink water after they're cut. Place these in a cool place and cover them with wet tissue.

Violets like water on their flowers. Bunch them first, then turn bunches upside down and immerse in water to allow the flowers to drink from blossom ends as well as stems.

All green leaves should be conditioned by placing in buckets of water overnight before you arrange them.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Ice Cream Punch (makes 1 quart)

1 cup orange juice

1/2 cup lime juice

1/4 cup lemon juice

1 cup pineapple juice

1/2 cup sugar

1 pint vanilla ice cream

Combine fruit juice and sugar, stirring until sugar is dissolved.

Add ice cream and beat with rotary beater to blend. This makes a thick, creamy punch.

If you like to have big bunches of lilacs around the house, condition by immersing these in water overnight, using a big tub or bath tub. Let the water come up to the tub.

Add one tablespoon molasses to each quart of water in which you immerse pennies for conditioning.

Flowers which are bleeders, like poppies, hollyhocks, poppies, milkweed and lupines should have the tips of their stems buried. Then plunge them into ice water to remain overnight.

Coral bells, lilles of the valley and forget-me-nots should have two drops of alcohol added to their conditioning water.

Now the boys could go to work and the girls would have their man by that time it would relieve the moms and pops of a lot of expense. It would free the nation with less unneeded economists, psychologists and social scientists who otherwise would grab and grab on the payroll.

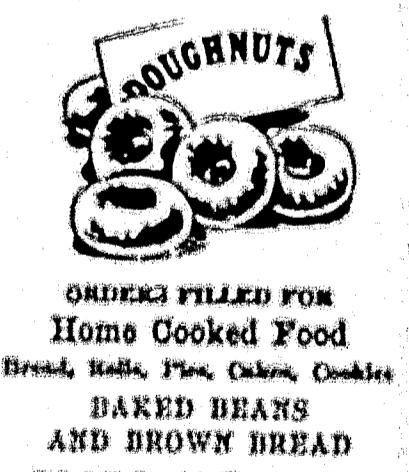

Well now says Henry, you finally have a solution that might click with me. Surprise me. Thank you very much I say.

Yours with the best regards,
JOE REED

Local Population and Industrial Changes Great Since 1878

Interesting facts and figures are found in a copy of the 1878 edition of The Maine Register, published by Hoyt Fogg & Donham, 123 Middle Street, Portland, which was loaned to the Citizen by Clarence Howe of Locke Mills. Statistics of towns in this vicinity show a variety of industry far different from the present day pattern.

Population at that time was lower than at present in the county, Bethel was about the same as now, while Rumford had 1212 in 1870 and 10,230 in 1940. Incidentally Rumford reached a low of 888 in 1890, and Bethel's highest is listed at 2233 in 1860.

The Register listed the following information regarding Bethel:

Postmaster—Leander T Barker; North, Angle Syvan; West, A S Bean; South, Hiram Hodson; Selectmen—Daniel B Grover, Chairman P Bean, Wm. O Holt.

Town Clerk—Leander T Barker; Treasurer—Oliver H Mason; Constables—G Weston Haskell, John B Chapman, T H Chapman, S K Estes, H Young.

Hotels—Bethel House, J F Barnes; The Elm, J S Record.

Postmaster—J H Lovejoy; Selectmen—Gilbert Wardwell, W M Robbins, W M Brown.

Town Clerk—Josiah Wheeler; Treasurer—J H Lovejoy.

Constable—J Aspinwall.

School Committee—J A Kimball, C C Kimball, Wallace Cummings.

Clergymen—Supplies, Cong; supplies, Meth.

Justices—J H Lovejoy, April 19, 1876; Franklin Cross, Feb. 11, 1874, Quorum.

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

By
Mrs. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS
Associate Editor,
Parents Magazine

HOW CAN YOU KNOW if it is real love? A public affairs pamphlet addressed to teen agers warns them that "falling in love" just doesn't happen — you grow into love. And, we might add, when love stops growing it ceases to be love in its richest sense. For love, especially married love, deepens with the years.

Then why are there so many divorces? One reason is that, while love by its very nature continues to grow, human beings often stop growing at some period of their lives. You have seen mature men with doll wives, and fine women with playboy husbands because, though they may have started together on the same plane of love, one or the other didn't develop his capacity for shared affection and experience.

The pamphlet to which we referred is called, "So You Think It's Love?" and was written by Ralph G. Eckhart for the Public Affairs Committee. The author posts signs reading, "Beware of the romantic pattern" — the boy meets girl infatuation blared from radio, television, movie and magazine illustrations. Instead of counting pulse beats when you start dating, the pamphlet advises: "We know now that a happy marriage is not so much dependent upon "finding" the right person as becoming the right person. People used to say that opposites attract each other. Now we know that the kind of person we are determines the kind of person we attract and are attracted to.

"To the degree that you become there is a 'one and only.'

One word of comfort to the young person whose marriageable qualities aren't all on the surface—you couldn't imitate the "wolf" or the "temptress" if you tried—and in acting out of character you may miss the chance to win a mate with your own more lasting charms.

ginned by horse or mule power as a man stood in front of the gin and dropped the cotton in the breast, by hand. Cotton gins had no feeders or the cotton into the lint room where it was put in a basket and carried to the press outside the house. A man would operate the press by hand awhile, then hitch a horse or mule to it."
